

A CAPPELHAMS

John Hastings teaches fourth grade at The New Canaan Country Day School. He loves to sing with big groups, small groups and around the house (although his children don't enjoy it.) John has designed the lighting for Patti LuPone's one-woman shows. A part-time muralist, his work can be seen at the Pelham Public Library and on the walls of various Pelham homes.

Chris Ronan is an attorney practicing in Garden City, NY, and the dad of three. Chris is in demand as a vocalist with local Pelham music groups. He has performed with The Weekenders, at the Huguenot Cabaret, and is game to wear whatever head attire is most appropriate for the song of the day, spaghetti notwithstanding.

Dawn LoCascio has been a professional singer/songwriter most of her life. Performing everything from salsa and standards to popular music, she is happy with every opportunity to share her skills, joy and love for singing.

Simone Schloss left her financial/public policy career to raise her three daughters. She joined The Pelham Larks after moving to Pelham Manor in 1998. Simone now studies jazz voice, cabaret and sight singing and has performed at Don't Tell Mama in Manhattan.

Donna Randles is a graphic designer who works for a global engineering and architectural firm in Manhattan. She can be heard singing with several local Pelham groups. Donna especially enjoys the challenge of a cappella close harmony.

The a capPelhams perform a repertoire of pop standards a cappella (without accompaniment) in five-part harmony. Recent performances include Relay for Life in Pelham. The a capPelhams are available for Sunday performances. Please call Donna Randles at 914-738-0869 for further information.
